AN ORIENTAL FAIR.

The Bazaar of All Nations in Progress at Culcutta.

Nights Which Meet the Eye of the Curious Traveler—Exhibits of Different Countries—Uncle Sam.

(Culcutta Cor. Inter Ocean.)

With the exception of the great museum in Tokio, Japan, I know nothing that will compare with the Calcutta museum, and even that is not so complete as this.

There was one room alone in which I would agree to put several weeks profitably, and that was devoted to the levitation of this wonderful hemisphere. There were stuffed rhinoceroses, whale skeletons, elephants, crocodiles, and other animals.

There were also a number of rooms in which were displayed a variety of things, including a large collection of minerals, and a large collection of plants.

The department of France was especially noteworthy. Of course, the wine display was the most interesting. There were many fine wines, and a large collection of French wines.

There was also a large collection of French wines, and a large collection of French wines. There was also a large collection of French wines, and a large collection of French wines.

THE WAR TURTLE.

A Terrible War Engine Invented by a Yankee Genius.

(Boston Cor. Chicago Tribune.)

Up to this date nothing has been written or printed about it, but the inventor, a well-known builder of locomotives and the originator of many valuable and famous machines, has so far developed his plan that he is willing to speak of them in a general way while he holds back for the present the secret of his machine.
